DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Brown et al.

Brown et al. Discloses the claimed arrangement, and provides an adjacent seat portion (seat back) which is pivoted up with the engine cover. Lateral access is not hindered.

Re claim 6, the second seat is slightly forward, but still positioned between engine and side as claimed.

3. Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Miller.

Miller provides first and second seats as claimed, pivotable with the engine cover.

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Miller.

Art Unit: 3617

Provision of cushions as are considered to have been old and well known in the art would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention.

Such a modification would have been desirable at the time the invention was made so as to provide for the comfort of the users.

6. Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brown et al.

Brown et al. Discloses a cushion which resides in a space beside the engine.

Although not specifically mentioned, the cushion is adapted to assume any orientation within its pocket, including one in which it is generally parallel to the longitudinal axis of the boat.

7. Claims 13,14,17,18 and 20 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Miller in view of Rosenberg et al.

Miller fails to disclose cushions, as are old and well known in the art as evidenced by Rosenberg et al.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide seating cushions to Miller as taught by Rosenberg et al.

Such a combination would have been desirable at the time the invention was made so as to provide for comfort and safety of the users.

Since the cushions are loose and unrestrained, they are inherently adapted to assume to positions within the pockets as specified.

Art Unit: 3617

8. Claims 15,16 and 19 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

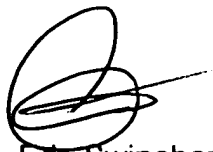

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Tomczak et al. And Kalhok et al. show pivotable seats and/or cushions.
